

Candidate Profile

Josef Kubovsky (35)

Head of Sales at Memsource

Academic background:

I hold a degree in International Relations from the Metropolitan University in Prague, Czech Republic. I speak English, Czech, Russian and Chinese.

Professional career:

I work as Head of Sales at Memsource. In my 10 years in the translation industry in various managerial positions, I have met and worked with hundreds of language service providers in the US and Europe. Each year I travel to over 30 professional conferences and observe what companies around the world do to grow their business.

Professional experience in technical communication:

My professional experience in technical communication primarily includes translations and, as part of my position, I regularly consume technical documentation but do not actively produce it. As a member of the localization industry, I understand the importance and necessity of technical documentation to a company and its constituents, and the need to communicate clearly and consistently across different formats and languages.

Goals:

I would like to see the enhancement and development of the industry, a greater involvement with translations, as well as highlight the importance of technical documentation across industries with a focus on the localization and translation sector.
