Candidate Profile

Luyao Zhang

Academic background:
I obtained a master's degree in technical communication at the University of Twente in the Netherlands in 2016, and a second master's degree in computer-aided translation at Peking University in China in 2017. I obtained a bachelor's degree in English at Beijing Sport University in China in 2011.

Professional career:
I have been working as a technical writer at Mendix since May 2021.
I worked as a technical writer at Malvern Panalytical from September 2017 to April 2021.

Professional experience in technical communication:
I studied technical communication and translation-related computer technology in the Netherlands and in China and have been working as a technical writer for almost four years in the Netherlands.

What are your goals for your role as delegate?
I aim to organize a variety of local events together with the Initiative Committee to cater for the needs of the members of tekom Netherlands. I want to help with the growth of the local technical communication community.